Disappearance of Yellow Fever.

Not a single case of yellow fever has been reported during the past week in the Hospitals. Every new case except the one which we mentioned yesterday, and which proved to be but the same case over again, has also said to be but the question of diagnosis. Dr. Beale, the attending physician, has given the cause of a terrible consumption which has proved fatal to several persons, as to the cause of the disease; but we are confident, we state that there is not a single case in the street or vicinity, nor has there been one for several days.

At Park Hospital there has been only one new case for the last two days.

THE OVERLAND MOVE TO KANSAS.

I am so far on my way to Kansas by the Iowa route, or rather by that of its route, for there are two. And as information concerning that most lauded territory is the object of the quest and herald commission upon the part of the travelers, I have always endeavored that the way in the first upon this matter, and those by ways to the Missouri border; and the other, and more direct, from Chicago to Iowa City, by rail. Of the latter I will speak first, as it is by much the most expeditious and comfortable.

The cars occupied in going from Chicago to Iowa City are nearly twelve hours.

ARRIVAL AT IOWA.

So far as I could judge of the country I saw in coming from Davenport, it is strikingly like the middle portion of Eastern Kansas. We have the same magnificent reaches of rolling prairie, rather scantily supplied with timber, and the soil seems of the same rich character. The chief exception to the similarity is the greater number of streams with which the former is watered. Iowa City is a comfortable frontier town, with its eight thousand inhabitants, and rushed in the fertile valley of the Iowa River, a beautiful stream, which, last here, furnishes the finest site for cities.

The town occupied by Mormons on the Missouri River, after which the removal to Nebraska City, which will lead the emigrants immediately across Kansas, with the same exquisite of time and money. And over them, he will have nearly three hundred miles of staging before he reaches the Missouri River; after which the remaining distance, nearly one hundred more, must be done by private conveyance.

The route over both these routes are said to be good, and the disposition of the people that I've met with, to be accommodating. I am told that the passenger coaches, either by rail or stage, from Iowa City to Nebraska City, are better and cheaper accommodations and outfits than the central route by Iowa City. This statement looks reasonable.

MARKET REPORTS.

LONG ISLAND.

Plays and Playwrights.

The Act for the protection of dramatic copyright having passed the Senate and the House of Representatives, all the great American dramatic historical of more or the trunk-down Dramatic Attorney's office, in College-place, to register the titles of their plays. For some days there stood by the door of the Act three or four well-dressed and lady-like gentlemen, each with a bundle of rolled paper under his arm, or rubbing out of his coat pocket, in some where there had a pocket that would hold anything. All these gentlemen were of expression of mingled triumph and anxiety. They cast curious glances at each other, and eyed each other's bundles with ill-disguised curiosity. The fact was, every one of the distinguished dramatists was alarmed, but his companion should be silent to copyright a version of his play, for fancy hand. Parts would each look across the five-cornered with the hatred usual among members of the same family.

Attracted by this sudden emergence of the dramatic tribe into daylight, we determined to take an early opportunity of visiting the Copyright Office, and spending a hallowe'en over its books. We accordingly proceeded to College-place, where we found that Department of the State occupying a large house, for which a rent double its value is being at present paid. In the office we found the clerk waiting, seated, whether any renewal pieces were to be copyrighted. We replied in the negative, and requested to be allowed to look at the books. The clerk politely, but with considerable diffidence, said we could not be allowed to see the books, as they contained the titles of pieces which had not been copyrighted, and which, if seen by us, might be stolen. We assured him that we were not dramatic writers, and had no intention of stealing any piece, but he was inexorable. We then asked him if he would allow us to look at the books in his presence, but he said that he could not do so, as he had no time to attend to us. We then left the office, and proceeded to the Library of Congress, but were informed there that the books could not be seen without an order from the Librarian, Mr. SPOFFORD, who was absent in the country. We then left, and have not since been able to find out whether or not the Act has been taken advantage of.

We believe it is, of course, other such conviction proofs as the Dickie furniture.

Arrival of the Pacific.

The Pacific steamship Northern Light, from Aspinwall, arrived here yesterday morning. She brings passengers, and had a tedious passage, having been detained 17 days by head winds. She brings $1,000,000 in specie, and $1,000,000 in bullion. The specie is consigned to the Bank of New-York, the Bank of America, and the Bank of Commerce. Fire.

Sharp Cluster Work.

On Saturday night last, about 9½ o'clock, the members of the Common Council, in the room of the Board of Aldermen, in the City Hall, were startled by the cry of "Fire!" The alarm was given by the watchman of the City Hall, and the fire was soon extinguished. The damage is estimated at $1,000.

A Man Severely Thrashed by a Woman.

The Dayton (O.) Gazette states that a very much talked of affair of honor, between two well-known citizens of that place, has terminated in a manner very unexpected by the parties concerned. It appears that the gentlemen had a difficulty, and that one of them challenged the other to fight a duel. The challenged party accepted the challenge, and the duel was fought. The challenged party was severely thrashed by the challenger, and the duel was fought. The challenged party was severely thrashed by the challenger, and the duel was fought.

Fatal Accident.

Mr. Jones' Theorem.

Mr. Jones' theorem—Which dramatic works are spoken of, we believe, almost to be enlisted, and published without the permission, or acquainted with the original play of Dombey—has appeared in two pieces. One of them, however, the copyright has been given to Mr. CHANFRAU, from the Bowery Theatre, and the other to Mr. Barnum, for the Museum. The "Dick" on the Bowery, by special permission from Mrs. H. Bateman Stowe's novel, bids fair to prove that ere long we shall behold a "Uncle negro printing through the impossible dilemma of the Bowery, or hunted over pathless fastness by dogs, to human fate who resisted to the death. Of course we will be no fate—as we, who, after carrying everybody with it, presented with a plausible by the youthful love.

Mr. Barnum's success has cut too on the heels of the copyright law. We learn the name of a dramatic piece, which is to be produced at the Museum to-morrow night. It is entitled "Sold," and is understood to be in three acts and eighteen.

On the whole, the Bill is not to extravagance as we have been led to believe. Perhaps, in a year's time, to permit managers to produce a goodly array of original plays, about which nobody cares, and which nobody would have a dollar's worth of interest in, would be a blessing. But it would be a blessing to managers, not to the public.

Marketing in Washington.

Assembling such a large population from all national metropolis as an entire Congress, with its host of dependents, lobby-members, etc., and the camp and hangers and hangers that follow in its train, would be a severe trial to the markets of any city. Washington, however, is not a city, and its markets are not subject to the ordinary rules of supply and demand. The markets of Washington are not subject to the ordinary rules of supply and demand. The markets of Washington are not subject to the ordinary rules of supply and demand.

What Next—and Next.

From the very serious manner in which the Southern papers are discussing what the South should do in the event of Fremont's election, it would seem that that event is regarded south of the Potomac as a foregone conclusion, by the men of our Southern brethren is that of men who regard their defeat in the present contest as certain, and are taking them by the forelock in discussing what they shall do when the dreaded event comes to be questionable. If they would but look North, they might learn a profitable lesson from the cheerfulness of the Republicans, who are equally prepared for defeat or success. If they elect their candidate, they will do him duty as for the country; and if they should be defeated, they will reconsider their late action, and try their constitutional protection, has now been formed this side of the Potomac. But it is quite otherwise "down South," where dissolution is the most familiar of household words, though no one has South Carolina Rhodes to say as yet, openly announced any intention of pulling down the Temple of Liberty about the ears of its worshipers. A Washington correspondent of the Norfolk Courier says:

"The news recently from the Northern States is very discouraging to the Democratic Party. I should not be surprised if Fremont swept the North. The elections are also the contest between Fremont, the white Republican candidate, and Fremont, the white Republican candidate. The elections are also the contest between Fremont, the white Republican candidate, and Fremont, the white Republican candidate.

OILS AND PAINTS.

KEROSENE OILS
NOT EXPLOSIVE.
SECURED BY PATENTS.
KEROSENE ILLUMINATING OIL.
THE ECONOMY OF THIS OIL IS UNRIVALED.
$4 16 of KEROSENE gives as much light as $9 of rape seed oil.
$13 of whale oil, $25 of sperm oil, and $30 of burning fluid.
It burns in all the argand button top lamps, including camphene and olivic oil lamps, without the usual tendency to smoke.
KEROSENE LUBRICATING AND SPINNACLE OIL.
The effect of this oil on machinery is found to be perfectly magical; it removes the gum caused by the use of impure oils, wears equal to best Sperm Oil, and does not congeal at a low temperature. For burning lamps, signal and bowsprit lanterns, this Oil is unsurpassed. It will burn for two nights without gumming or crusting the wick, a great desideratum for shipmasters, and gives a light equal to best Sperm Oil. It also burns in all the solar and hand lamps.
The attention of engineers, ship chandlers and ship captains is respectfully requested to the certificates to be seen at the office of AUSTENS, Agent of Kerosene Oil Company, No 50 Beaver-st.
